Mr Mick's favourite red variety was without doubt, Shiraz. From his early days working in the vineyards to the end of his amazing career 57 years later, wines made from Clare Valley Shiraz captivated him with their power and elegant synergism. This wine seeks to emulate just that style, elegant yet flavoursome, gentle enough to sit and taste, and great with food.

Shiraz, fermented for a week with its skins, was then gently pressed, with all pressings in this blend. The wine was then matured in a mixture of American oak barrels and stainless steel tanks using carefully selected oak alternatives before bottling in April 2014.

It is suitable for drinking anytime from the present to ten years of age, and will complement all red meat cuisine.
