MARLBOROUGH

ABOUT

Munamuna means ‘to be secret’ or ‘covert’ in New Zealand’s native Maori tongue, which is fitting for their wines. Munamuna feel anything worth having is worth protecting. What they can tell you is the fruit used in their wine is from the Marlborough region.

WINEMAKER, ALAN MCCORKINDALE

Widely regarded as one of New Zealand’s leading winemakers, Alan McCorkindale has over 30 years of winemaking experience, creating wines from New Zealand’s cool climate South Island wine regions. Alan has winemaking experience in Burgundy, Champagne, Alsace, the Rheingau, the Hunter Valley and Tasmania.

2014 MUNAMUNA SAUVIGNON BLANC

Innovative winemaking has created a ripe, fragrant and elegantly lifted on the nose showing peach, feijoa, lime zest and a hint of musky notes. The palate is succulent and nicely weighted with excellent mid palate intensity, leading to a lingering juicy finish. The wine offers plenty of attractive Sauvignon Blanc flavours.
